HIS NEW COAT.

'Is it really true, Max, that you are going to have a dinner-party at the Grange? Of learned gentlemen? And papa is to be invited?'

Fanny Leslie flung her little crochet cap into the air, and caught it again with the dexterity of a slight-of-hand performer.

Max Lynfield, who was sitting on the low stone stile that separated the well-kept grounds of the Grange from the weedy wilderness of the Leslie estate, with a gun balanced on his shoulder, and a game-bag slung over his back, nodded emphatically.

'All the scientific lights of the convention are to be invited,' said he. 'Spectacles and baldheads will be at a premium. Don't you wish you were a learned old fudge—eh, Fan? Of course, your governor is to be inyited. Don't he know the most about Egyptology, and ancient Roman letterings, of any old gentleman in the land? Isn't Professor Tolmaine especially anxious to make his acquaintance? And isn't Doctor Debrun going to bring, in his waistcoat pocket, a slab of stone chipped off from the nose of some Assyrian statue or other for him to identify? What are you looking so sober about? Jealous because you can't make out the company, eh? I'm sorry for you, Fanny; but you had no business to be a woman.'

'It isn't that,' said Fannie, with ludicrous solemnity. 'What day is the dinner to be, Max?'

'The seventeenth. Just two weeks from to-day. But I say, Fan, what are you in such a hurry for?'

'It's almost sundown,' said Miss Leslie, gathering her scarf about her shoulders in a hurried way. 'And I have waisted ever so much time here already. Good-by, Max!'

'Yes; but I say, Fanny—'

The only response to his appeal was the light, quick sound of the girl's footsteps, as she flitted away over the carpet of autumn leaves that covered the path, into the yellow mist of the October afternoon.

'What a pretty girl that is!' Max Lynfield murmured to himself. 'Her eyes are exactly the color of a bazlenut, and she has got the sweetest little sugar-plum of a mouth that I ever beheld! But I don't see why she need be in such a hurry.'

And he disconsolately picked up the game-bag which he had unbuckled from his shoulder, and strode away, whistling.

Meanwhile, Fanny Leslie had sped to the dreary, old-fashioned stone house, blotched with milew and full of a spectral silence, where old Mr. Leslie sat, spectacled and absorbed, among his books, and Alma, the eldest daughter, was in the kitchen making a damson pudding for dinner.

She looked up as Fanny came flying in.

'I thought you never were coming, Fan,' said she. 'Did you bring the powdered sugar?'

'Here it is.' Fanny flung a little paper on the table. 'But oh, Alma! the dinner-party at the Grange is to be on the seventeenth, and papa is to be one of the invited guests!'

Alma Leslie paused in her task of sprinkling snowy sugar over the crushed purple damsons in the plate.

'Oh, Fanny!' said she. 'But of course he can't go. He has no coat fit to be seen at a dinner party in Colonel Lynfie'd's house.'

'Alma, he must go!'

'How can he, Fanny?'

'It will be such a treat for him, Alma, to meet those scientific gentlemen, and get a glimpse of the world he has so long left behind him,' pleaded Fanny. 'We must manage it somehow!'

Alma knitted her black brows together.

'How much money is there in the drawer, Fan?' she asked, abruptly.

'I don't quite know—fifteen dollars, I think.'

'All this proves the impossibility of our fine dinner-party, Fan,' said Alma, shrugging her shoulders. 'Fifteen dollars would just about purchase the cloth for a new coat.'

Fanny looked gravely at her sister.

'Well,' said she, 'this is all I want. Give me the cloth, and I'll make the coat.'

'What nonsense, Fanny?'

'It isn't nousense at all.'

'You make a broadcloth coat?'

'Why shouldn't I? Didn't I make a cloth ulster for myself, and make it nice, too?'

'But you are not a tailor!'

'I'll be a tailoress, which is just as good.'

'You have no pattern, Fan.'

'I can rip papa's old coat apart and get the pattern from that, Alma. Where is it? Is he wearing it now?'

'He has got on that old dressing-gown of his,' said Alma.

'Then get the coat—that's a dear—and rip it carefully apart,' said Fanny, 'while I go down to the store and buy the broadcloth. We haven't a second of time to loose.'

The next two days were days of cutting, stitching, pressing, calculating, in the big, sunny south room which the Leslie girls called their boudoir.

Old Mr. Leslie sat among his dusty tomes and ponderous dictionaries, with a pencil back of each ear and a pen in his hand, making notes and scribbling off paragraphs, all unconscious of what was going on around him.

'If I'm to be at that dinner-party of "savants,"' he said to Alma, 'I must settle this question as to the authenticity of the Eudeic monograph.'

'Certainly, papa,' said Alma, in an abstracted way, as she hemmed a new black silk cravat, and pondered as to the practicability of new gloves, and whether her father could be induced to wear them if they were bought.

'Papa,' said Fanny, the evening before the eventful day, 'we want you to try on your coat to-night.'

'To try on my coat!' vaguely repeated the philosopher. 'What coat? what for?'

'Oh, just to see if it's all right!' said Fanny, not without a little qualm of terror lest her father should discover the pious fraud and object to wear homemade garments.

Absently, Mr. Leslie rose up, divested himself of his faded dressing-gown, and put on the new coat.

Alma and Fanny viewed him with critical eyes, and exchanged glances of satisfaction at each other.

'Does it feel quite comfotable, papa?' asked Alma.

'Very nice, my dear—very nice,' said the philosopher. 'Really I didn't know that old coat looked so nice. Take it away, daughter, and brush it thoroughly, and have it ready for me to-morrow, with a fresh necktie and a clean pocket handkerchief.'

And once more he plunged into the depths of the Eudeic monograph question.

'Fanny,' said Alma, in a low voice, 'it's a success!'

'Alma,' responded Fanny, in the same tone, 'I knew that it would be!'

Mr. Leslie went to the dinner-party at Lynfield Grange, and astonished several dozen other old gentlemen by the depth of his wisdom and the profundity of his learning, and nobody discovered that the homemade coat was not the chief d'euvre of a New York clothier.

But Fanny Leslie was not destined to hear the last of the coat. Miss Helena St. Jacquin, who had chanced to surprise them in the task, whispered it mysteriously to her dearest friend Mrs. Emerson Fielding. And every one knew, presently, that the Leslie girls had turned tailoresses and taken in work by the day.

'It was Fanny,' said MissSt. Jacquin, 'I saw her myself, pressing out the seams of a coat with a prodigious smoothing-iron—a man's coat! They tried to shuffle it out of sight as soon as possible, but they weren't quick enough for me!'

'Well,' said Max Lynfield carelessly, 'why shouldn't they sew men's coats as well as woman's worsted work?'

Mrs. Emerson Fielding elevated her pretty little nose.

'I'm afraid,' said she, 'we shall have to leave the Leslie girls off our list for the charade-parties next winter.'

Max Lynfield rose up in exceeding great wrath.

'Then you may leave me off, too!' said he, and stalked out of the room.

He went straight to the old stone-house. Fanny was in the garden, gathering chrysantheums—great white-fringed beauties, and buds that were like balls of gold, and little brick-red blossoms full of a strange aromatic fragrance like Eastern spices.

'Fan,' said he, 'if you had wanted money, you ought have come to me. Haven't we been friends long enough to induce you to put any confidence in me?'

Fanny looked at him in serene surprise.

'But Max,' she said, 'we don't want money—no more than usual, that is to say. Everybody wants money, I suppose.'

And she clipped off a stem of rich maroon flowers, and laid it lovingly among the rest of her floral trophies.

Honest Max, who had no idea of diplomacy, plunged headlong into the subject.

'Then,' said he, 'what's all this story about your taking in tailor-work?'

'About my taking in tailor-work?'

'Yes. Miss St. Jacquin saw you working at it.'

'Did she?' Fanny's cheeks flamed scarlet. 'Miss St. Jacquin had better have been attending to her own business. But since she has told you half a story, I may as well supply the other half. I am sure it is no secret.'

And she told Max Lynfield the whole of the simple tale.

'Fan, you're a trump!' said he. 'And you really made that coat yourself?'

'I really made that coat myself—with a little help from Alma!' proudly spoke Fanny.

'I should like a daughter like you—that is to say, when I develop into an old gentleman of scientific tastes,' said Max.

'Oh, you'll never develop into a scientist,' said Fanny. 'You are a deal too active and wideawake. 'You're not half wise enough.'

At this Max's honest countenance fell.

'I knew it,' said he sorrowfully. 'You despise me. You think I am a dunce.'

Fanny dropped all her flowers, in her consternation.

'Oh, Max,' she cried, 'I don't despise you at all. I like you!'

'That isn't the question,' said Max, moodily. The question is, do you love me?'

'Max!'

'Fanny! No—stay here!' posting himself, with lightning rapidity, in the doorway. 'Unless you jump down the terrace, you can't get away from me. And I'm determined to have an answer.'

He had the answer. And the answer was 'Yes.'

It is very seldom, you see, that a thoroughly determined young man allows himself to be baffled.

Mrs. Fielding, the pretty widow, was deeply annoyed; Miss St. Jacquin raved.

'But, you see,' Mr. Lynfield afterward said, 'I never should have known how much I cared for Fan, if I hadn't heard those spiteful cats criticising her.'

And Mr. Leslie wore the selfsame coat to his daughter's wedding.

But, to the end of his learned and scientific life, he never knew who made it.

Savants are not wise in the ordinary events of everyday life.

A Level-Headed Brakeman.

A number of years ago a stubby young man with a big mouth and solid-looking head was taken on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad as a freight brakeman. He seemed to pay no attention to the sports indulged in by his fellow-brakemen when off duty, but spent most of his time around the shops learning how to run engines and picking up information about the machinery of railroading. One day a tall, clerical-looking man was riding in the caboose of the train on which this young man was employed. The tall man seemed to take a kindly interest in the young brakeman, who answered his questions courteously, but did not permit the passenger to interfere in the least with his duty. Finally the train came to a standstill, and it was found that it had met another freight train at a station where the side track was not long enough to hold either train. The problem presented was: How were the trains to get by each other? In this day that would be solved very easily, but it so happened that at that time, when railroading was a very different matter, neither conductor had encountered such a condition of affairs and both supposed that one of the trains would have to back up to a station with a longer side track. As the conductors were discussing this the tall passenger and the young brakeman came up to them. When the young man understood the situation he said to his conductor, respectfully:

'You can get by.'

'How, I'd like to know?' said the conductor.

The young brakeman picked up a stick and marked out in the mud what is now known to every railroad man as 'sawing-by.' The trains were sawed and went their way. The next day the young man was called to the division superintendent's office, where he met the tall passenger—Superintendent H. H. Hitchcock—and was taken into his more immediate employ, where he learned telegraphy and became a train despatcher. In a short time the office of master of transportation was created, and the young man was given that place. From that day he has grown rapidly, and now the man who rides over the Chicago & Alton Railroad on the general manager's pass reads that young brakeman's name at the foot of it, C. H. Chappell, general manager.—Chicago News.

Learning the Business.

'What is the first thing you endeavor to teach a young man when he goes to work in your store?' was the question asked of a successful Elmira business man a day or two ago.

'Well, the first thing that I endeavor to teach him,' was the response, 'is that he don't know anything about the business. He will then be willing to begin at the bottom and master the whole trade in detail.'

There seems to be considerable sense in the gentleman's remarks.—Elmira Gazette.

The Impression of a Dying Mother's Last Words.

A venerable clergyman of Virginia said lately: Men of my profession see much of the tragic side of life. Beside a death bed the secret of passions, the hidden evil as well as the good in human nature, are very often dragged to the light. I have seen men die in battle, children, and young wives in their husbands' arms, but no death ever seemed so pathetic to me as that of an old woman, a member my church.

'I knew her first as a young girl, beautiful, gay, full of spirits and vigor. She married and had four children; her husband died and left her penniless. She taught school, she painted, she sewed, she gave herself scarcely time to eat or sleep. Every thought was for her children to educate them, to give them the same chance which their faith would have done.

'She succeeded; sent the boys to college, and the girls to school. When they came home, refined girls and strong young men, abreast with all the new ideas and tastes of their time, she was a worn out commonplace old woman. They had their own pursuits and companions. She lingered among them for two or three years and then died of some sudden failure in the brain. The shock woke them to consciousness, in an agony of grief. The oldest son, as he held her in his arms, cried:

'You have been a good mother to us!'

'Her face colored again, her eyes kindled into a smile, and she whispered, 'You never said that before, John.' Then the light died out and she was gone.'

How many men and women sacrifice their own hopes and ambitions, their strength, their life itself, to their children, who receive it as a matter of course, and begrudge a caress, a word of gratitude, in payment of all that has been given them.

Boys, when you come back from college, don't consider that your only relation to your father is to 'get as much money as the governor will stand.' Look at his gray hair, his uncertain step, his dim eyes, and remember in whose service he has grown old. You can never pay him the debt you owe, but at least acknowledge it before it is too late.

A Tough Regiment.

Jack Stephens, Clerk of the Criminal Court, tells how it came about that his regiment was in the late Senator Miller's brigade but fifteen minutes. Jack's regiment was one of the toughest in the army, and nobody seemed anxious to have it in his command. After it had been transferred from one brigade to another and had found nobody who could control it, Gen. Miller, who was on pretty good terms with himself and had a high opinion of his ability to control any set of men, asked to have the tough regiment added to his brigade. There was no opposition to this, of course, and the transfer was made. Gen. Miller immediately ordered the regiment up in line and proceeded to make a speech to it, telling the boys what he was and what he was not going to suffer them to do. As he warmed up to his subject he drew off his long gauntlets and laid them on a drum standing near him. Hardly had he done this when one of the boys in the line sneaked behind the General and in plain sight of the entire regiment stole the gaunlets and succeeded in getting back to his place in the ranks unobserved by the eloquent General. At the close of the speech, which did not take longer than ten minutes, the General dismissed the boys and turned to pick up his gaunlets.

'Well, I'll be blessed!' What he said is not fully reported, but the fact is known that in five minutes more he had succeeded in having the regiment turned over to another brigade.

Embalmed by the Soil.

Human bodies buried in limestone countries are often turned to solid stone by the lime water which penetrates the graves. In other soils there are elements which sometimes so enbalm the buried dead as to preserve form and features unchanged. Many such cases are on record. Robert Burn's body was disinterred in 1815, to be removed to a new tomb. To the surprise of all his friends, the features were found to be as perfect as at his burial.

The case of John Hampden, the famous English patriot and leader, was more surprising. His body was disinterred by Lord Nugent, two hundred years after burial, but form and features were as unchanged as if the corpse had been recently laid in the grave.

When General Washington's body was taken up at Mt. Vernon, to be laid in a sarcophagus and removed to the permanent tomb, his face was found to be in a state of perfect preservation.

In all these cases, however, the process of decay had gone on internally, though arrested at the surface. After a brief exposure to the air, the body crumbled, and all resemblance to life passed away.—Youth's Companion.

A THIEF DETECTOR.

One Man's Employment in a New York Store.

A Private Detective Who Mingles with the Throng of Shoppers.

A tall haughty young woman, wrapped in furs, with large diamond earings, moved lazily through the throng of shoppers in an uptown dry goods establishment the other day. She viewed with indifference the great variety of objects exposed for sale, and chatted gayly with a young and stylish dressed companion, casting haughty looks of displeasure at the more vulgar shoppers whenever, as it frequently happened, they were rude enough to jostle against her. A handsome Japanese leather shopping satchel swung from her left arm, and in a harder jostle than any she had yet received, the spring had snapped and the satchel swung open. Inside lay a purse, some loose greenbacks, and odd change temptingly exposed to view. The fair owner continued her elegant walk utterly oblivious of the danger threatening her purse.

A stylish young fellow who had been darting hither and thither in the throng suddenly rested his eyes on the open satchel. They twinkled for a moment, and then he became very earnest and apparently very anxious to reach the street. He forced his way up to the satchel, dexterously hid it from view, and slyly stole his hand into its depths. He was about to withdraw it again, when he met with a sudden and unexpected shock. A stout, heavily built man, with his overcoat buttoned up to the ears, who had been moving slowly with the crowd, apparently indifferent to everything and everybody, had suddenly taken a violent interest in the dapper young man, and it was his hand which had arrested the thief just as he had started to remove purse and money from the open satchel.

The young lady turned around with a slight scream, much disturbed, and there was a commotion in the immediate neighborhood.

'Keep your satchel closed, madam,' remarked the stout man calmly, and before she recovered from her fright he had disappeared with the thief in his custody.

A reporter for the Sun, who had watched the foregoing, followed the two men into a private office at one end of the second story.

'I should think that you would know enough to keep out of here,' said the stout man angrily to the thief.

The latter laughed carelessly and submitted to being searched without a murmur.

'What's the odds,' he returned with a grin.

'The bosses won't have us arrested, so we run no risks. Once in a while we strike a duffer when you're off gallivanting with the daisies. That was a pretty lay you spoiled just now, though,' he added regretfully. 'Won't you come out and have something?'

'Not just now,' replied the stout man ironically, 'but I'll see that you get out.'

'I am the house detective,' he said a little later, after having conducted his charge out of a side door. 'I have been a detective nearly all my life, and I owe my present place to the fact that I know by sight every professional thief and pickpocket in the country. I get a large salary for doing nothing but walk up and down through the store all day, and am entirely my own master. I have several assistants also, but I am responsible for all. If a pocketbook is lost, an article taken from a counter, or a clerk knocks down, I am held to answer, so that I am obliged to keep my eyes wide open all the time.

'People are very careless. A dozen times at least every day I have to warn ladies that their shopping satchels are open, or that they have laid their purses on the counter while examining goods.

'It is a rule of this house to avoid publicity as much as possible in the matter of arrests. If I find a thief, even in the act of stealing, I simply take away his booty, search him carefully for other stolen goods and then put him out. If I find him in a crowd, even when he is not plying his trade, I search him just the same and put him out. I use no disguise. The thieves know me and I know them. They submit to search rather than arrest, and in that way we keep from the public the fact that thieves frequent this place. There is no doubt that they do come here in large numbers as well as to every other large store. Some of the biggest criminals in the country have been in this store. They frequent the art stores very much, for there they have a chance to make rich and unsuspecting acquaintances.

'Besides watching for thieves from outside, I have to keep my eyes on the employees. I am supposed to know what they all do, inside and out of the store, from the superintendent down to the scrub woman. If the superintendent is a drinking man or the cash girl eats more candy than her wages would pay for, the firm wants to know it. If the young clerk there spends his nights going around town, I am expected to keep my eye on him. I take orders from no one but the firm itself, and, although I believe I am popular with the employes, I also know that I am feared by them, for an evil report from me would be immediately followed by the delinquent's discharge. The firm trusts me, and I am proud of it, but it's a trying and responsible place all the same.

The reporter watched the detective as he slowly moved away, apparently seeing nothing but his little piercing eyes taking in everthing within their range of vision.

HE DIDN'T BITE.

Sharpers Discover a Farmer Who Was up to their Brightest Game.

There is a sharper's game which has been played for the last hundred years, and as the turning point is avarice the game works forty-nine times where it fails once. Two sharpers set out a few weeks ago to play it on a Wayne county farmer. One of them came along one day and wanted to buy the farm. As the farmer wanted to sell it was quite easy to strike a bargain. The price was to be $4,000 in cash, and the man handed over $250 to bind the bargain. Within two days a second stranger came along and wanted the farm. He wanted it so bad that he couldn't stand still. He found indications of coal, natural gas and coal oil, and he was willing to give $6,500 for the place. The idea was of course, that the farmer would be awful sick of his first sale and seek to buy the man off. It would pay him to offer the man $1,500 to release him.

The second stranger was only out of sight when the first one turned up again. His mouth watered over the prospect, but not for long. The farmer explained that he had been offered $2,500 more, and added:

'But I don't care for money. The $4,000 is enough for me and it's all the old farm is worth. When you are ready to pay the balance we'll make out the papers.'

The purchaser offered to release him for $1,000—$700—$500—$300, but the farmer didn't want to be released. He hung to the bargain money and he's got it yet, while the pair of sharpers rave and gnash their teeth every time they think of the thickness of his skull. —Detroit Free Press.

'The Dry Terms.

From the Portland (Northampton Co.) Enterprise.

It may be interesting to look back on this old record of dry seasons, which dates back to pilgrim fathers' times: In the summer of 1621, 24 days in succession without rain; in the summer of 1630, 41 days; summer 1656, 75 days; summer 1662, 80 days; summer 1674, 46 days; summer 1689, 81 days; summer 1694, 62 days; summer 1705, 40 days; summer 1716, 45 days; summer 1720, 61 days; summer 1730, 92 days; summer 1741, 72 days; summer 1749, 108 days; summer 1755, 42 days; summer 1762, 123 days; summer 1773, 80 days; summer 1791, 82 days; summer 1802, 23 days; summer 1812, 28 days; summer 1856, 24 days; summer 1871, 42 days; summer 1874, 26 days; summer 1875, 27 days. It will be seen that the longest drouth that ever occurred in America was in the summer of 1762, no rain falling from the first of May to the first of September, making 123 days without rain. Many of the inhabitants sent to England for hay and grain. The above does not include the dry terms for the last ten years. If any of the readers of this paper could give it to us we would be glad to have it. It would show us how we Americans were blessed during this 265 years, thanks to the Giver of All.

THURSDAY, MAY 20TH, 1886.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

THE most important business transacted in Congress last week was the consideration of the river and harbor bill. Nearly the whole of the Pennsylvania delegation voted against the bill.

THE present democratic majority in Congress is 43. To overcome this majority the republicans would not only have to hold their present districts, but gain 22 more for their side. This is a bigger job than the Republican side can handle and therefore the prospects for a democratic majority in the next congress are not so bad.

HON S. P. WOLVERTON, of Sunbury, has been mentioned by the Northumberland County Democrat, as a possible candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. It is a question as yet whether the gentleman will allow his name to be presented to the state convention, but there is certainly a very strong feeling in his favor among the democrats of his own as well as neighboring counties.

GEORGE R. JENKS, who resigned his position as Assistant Secretary of the Interior states in his letter of resignation that "other imperative duties" compel him to give up his Government position. An article in the Harrisburg Patriot of the 18th, throws some light upon the immediate cause of his resignation. The will of the late John E. DuBois, the founder of the village of the same name, in Clearfield county, is being contested by the niece of deceased, Mrs. Thos. S. Flood, of Elmira, N. Y. The article goes on to say that prior to 1874 Mr. DuBois frequently besought Thomas S. Flood to remove to DuBois and to manage the estate with a view to realizing on the various parcels of the property, that he, the owner, then ill and not expecting long to survive, might be better able to distribute it among the various heirs. Mr. Flood made frequent visits to Mr. DuBois, and in 1874 went to DuBois and remained four years as the manager of the property, returning to Elmira to manage his own affairs. Mr. Flood again after being importuned by Mr. DuBois, last fall, took charge of the old gentleman's property. Mr. Flood has in his possession letters bearing date January, February, March, April, May, June and July, 1884, all of which urge him to come to DuBois and take charge of the old man's property, reference being made to real estate, as well as other property.

Now it is held that if John DuBois' estate was deeded to John E. DuBois on January 17, 1884, the old man had no right to negotiate with and actually employ Mr. Flood to look after this property, with such promises as he had made, and that letters in John DuBois' peculiar handwriting show that he was at different dates of writing the owner of the property. The Assistant Secretary of the Interior, George R. Jenks, counsel for John Dubois, resigned his Government position to assist in the management of the DuBois property, John E. DuBois being his prospective son-in-law.

Mr. Jenks' Letter to the President.

Washington, May 14.—The following letter, written by Assistant Secretary Jenks to the President on the 1st instant, is made public to-day:

"I hereby respectfully tender my resignation of the office of Assistant Secretary of the Interior, and request its acceptance at your earliest convenience on or before the 15th of May, instant. I deeply regret to sever official relations with a chief whose considerate wisdom has illuminated and lightened official labors and rendered their performance a pleasure. I regret to part with my associate, whose courteous and cordial demeanor in our common work has impressed me with pleasant memories. But other imperative duties require me to return to you the trust committed to me. With the belief that the love of right and truth which has characterized your past official career will ensure success to your future, I am yours truly. G. A. JENKS."

Edward Herrick Draws a Prize.

Washington, May 14.—Edward Herrick, of Lock Haven, who was Chief Clerk in the Auditor General's office during the administration of Auditor General Schell, was to-day appointed Chief Clerk of the Railroad Division of the Interior Deparment. The position is one of great importance, and the salary is $2,600 per annum. Mr. Herrick has been for some years connected with the Solicitors' Department of the Beech Creek Railroad at Lock Haven, is a fine lawyer, and a gentleman well qualified to discharge the important duties that will devolve on him.

Confirmed by the Senate.

Washington, May 14.—Among the confirmations made by the Senate are the following: J. P. Kimball, of Pennsylvania, to be director of the Mint. C. W. Woodruff, of Pennsylvania, to be assistant Surgeon in the Navy.

POWDERLY ON THE BOYCOTT.

The Grand Master Workman Asks Some Pertinent Questions.

Scranton, Pa., May 16.—T. V. Powderly, Grand Master Workman of the Knights of Labor, has sent out the following letter:

The press has condemned the boycott as practised by the workingman. What has it to say of the boycott as practised by the employer of labor?

Let me state a case as it occurred during the early part of this year. A manufacturer, employing hundreds of men, learns that the men have organized an Assembly of the Knights of Labor. He at once discharges every man of them. The men did not ask for shorter hours, more pay or a change of any kind. A committee waited upon the manufacturer to ascertain his reasons for the discharge of his employes. His answer was: "They have joined the Knights of Labor, and I will not employ a member of that society. I can manage my own business myself."

The men have been turned out on the street for exercising their rights under the laws which allow them to "pursue happiness" in their own way. They have been boycotted · their places have been filled by imported men. Will you give me your opinion, editorially, of such action as that?

Would you advise the men to sever connection with the order of Knights of Labor in order to regain their former positions? If so, would you advise them to give up their religion should the employer resort to the same coercive measures?

In case the men belong to the Masonic order and the employer discharges them and refuses employment to them until they abandon that society, would you advise them to leave it in order to secure employment? If not, what would you advise?

In case an employer makes war upon the Masonic order, would a discharged member of that organization be justified in telling a brother Mason of the injury done him? If the brother Mason is a merchant, and is handling the goods manufactured by the man who discharged his fellow member, would he be justified in refusing to handle these goods until the manufacturer made amends by re-employing the members of the order?

Up to the present time the press has dealt with this question with but one standpoint. I believe it will deal fairly by it from all sides.

A copy of this letter is mailed to each of the leading journals. Do me the favor to make your reply on or before the 19th of this month, if possible, and oblige the undersigned with a copy of the same. Very truly yours,

T. V. POWDERLY.

An Office Claimed by Pennsylvania.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—Ex-Congressman James H. Hopkins, of Pittsburg, is the latest candidate for Assistant Secretary of the Interior, made vacant by the retirement of Jenks. His friends think he has a fair chance of success. The position seems to be claimed by Pennsylvania.

Miscellaneous News.

Grasshoppers in Indiana.

Chicago, May. 14.—A special from Decatur, Ind., says: Grasshoppers have appeared in this (Adams) county in vast numbers. Never in the history of this section have these pests been in such great numbers.

—MANY CHILDREN suffer from day to day; puny, pallid, fretful and feverish, variable appetite and restless sleep, finally die, and their parents never suspecting the real cause, that the little sufferers' stomachs are infested and eaten through with worms. Twenty-five cents invested in a box of McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders would save the doctor's bills and the patient's life. Entirely vegetable. Easy and pleasant to take. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

INDUSTRY ONCE MORE RESUMING A CHEERFUL ASPECT.

End of the Miners' Strike.

Huntingdon, Pa., May 17.—The coal miners' strike in the Cumberland region, which has continued since the 8th of March, will be practically ended tomorrow morning. The first resumption there or in any part of District No. 3 of the Miners' Federation at the old rates of 40 cents a ton will then take place. The men at the New Central mines on the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad have resolved to return to work. They will be followed by the men at the American mines on the Georges Creek road. Precautions have been taken against interference with the resuming workmen by those who favor a continuance of the strike, and they will be protected from violence. The officials of the Huntingdon and Broad Top Railroad which has not carried a car load of Cumberland coal for more than two months will immediately furnish cars for the traffic which they expect to be renewed.

The Labor Situation at Chicago.

Chicago, May 17.—About one-third of those who were working in the yards on Saturday resumed work this morning. The others remained out, but there was no trouble, the police allowing no crowds to assemble. The tailors and others engaged in making ready clothing, numbering fully 20,000, resumed work to-day, on the basis of 9 hours, with 10 hours' pay.

Last Week's Storms and Cyclones in the West and their Destructive Work given in a Condensed Form.

Xenia, O., May 13.—This place was visited last evening by the most destructive storm ever known in this section of the country. A fearful gale blew and rain fell in torrents. The destruction of buildings and railroads was great. Correct figures are wanting but it is safe to say that to the city and its citizens it will reach $75,000, while the railroads will suffer as much more. Twenty-four persons are reported to have been killed. From 50 to 100 buildings were swept from their foundations, and the inmates suddenly found themselves helpless in an angry flood. Many residences were swept down the current with their inmates.

Cincinnati, O., May 14.—News of damage by the storm of Wednesday night continues to come in. Madison County, Ky., suffered to the extent of more than $200,000. In Fayette County the waterspout was so pronounced that in four hours a stream had risen 18 feet. Dozens of bridges were washed away. In Clinton County the chief damage was by wind. Five barns are reported destroyed and timber prostrated over a large area. In Butler County also there was much damage by wind. Fifty feet of the Woodsdale bridge over the Miamia river was blown off and a fine iron and wood bridge on the Elliott turnpike was demolished. In the village of Seven Mile the streets were impassible from fallen trees. At Middletown the damage was by wind and storm. The mills are all stopped and nearly all access to the town is cut off. At Sidney, O., damage to the railroads is reported. Six miles west of Sidney the Bee Line had a washout 200 feet long and 100 feet deep. The Dayton and Michigan has several breaks between Sidney and Dayton. At Lima the Lake shore and Western trains were suspended by reason of washouts.

Albany, O., May 14.—A tornado passed through Columbia Township, Meigs County, on Wednesday night between 10 and 12.30 o'clock, demolishing several buildings, killing two persons and injuring several others.

Tipton, Ind., May 14.—Many private residences in and near the city were badly wrecked by Wednesday night's storm. Mrs. Marsh Tucker was fatally injured. Mrs. Gates and child were killed. Miss Barges was terribly injured but is still living. Large numbers of horses and cattle were killed. Many farms in White County were swept clear of residences, barns, out-houses, and orchards, and much stock killed.

Wilkinson, Ind., May 14.—The cyclone Wednesday night lasted only five minutes but totally destroyed nine houses. The killed are Samuel White, farmer, Glen Smith, son of J. W. Smith. Others were seriously wounded.

Attica, Ind., May 14.—The aggregate loss here will be in the neighborhood of $200,000. Seventy buildings were more or less demolished. The funeral of the first victim, Mrs. Davis, took place to-day. Every carpenter in the city was set to work at once. Hundreds of citizens are clearing away the rubbish of their ruined houses.

Danville, Ill., May 14.—A cyclone passed over this county on Wednesday night, destroying a score of farm houses. Mr. and Mr. Joseph Miller and the infant son of John A. Shaw were killed. Mr. Shaw himself was fatally injured.

A Train in a Cyclone.

Windows of the Cars Smashed and Passengers Injured.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 16.—The Chicago express on the Fort Wayne Railroad had a rough experience passing through the tornado which struck eastern Ohio Friday night. A limb of a tree struck the locomotive and cut the cowcatcher in two, another limb fell on the platform and steps of the first car and demolished it. Other branches smashed in the windows along the three passenger cars and the two Pullman sleepers. Mr. C. C. Bow, a merchant of Canton, Ohio, was in his berth in a sleeper, when the tree shivered the glass above him. He received one piece under his right eye with such force that the eye was literally cut out. A lady in the same car, was also cut, though not seriously about the face. A few others had their hands cut.

The Storm in Hardin County, Ohio.

Forrest, Ohio, May 16.—The storm here Friday night was one of the most fearful that ever visited this section of the country. Dunkirk, a town of 1,300 inhabitants, in this (Hardin) County, was the greatest sufferer, and at latest report there had been 5 dead and 18 injured persons recovered from the ruins. A great number of people are without homes and the sight along the track of the storm is a terrible one. The loss of property in this vicinity is about $350,000 or $400,000 at the present estimates.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

The Millheim Journal.

THURSDAY, MAY 20TH, 1886.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

TO THE LADIES

of Millheim & Vicinity.

I wish to call your attention and invite your inspection of the elegantly trimmed and neatly made line of just received at my place, next door to E. C. Campbell's residence, on Main Street.

Hats, Bonnets, Lace Caps, etc. etc.

REMEMBER

that my styles and prices suit all and that I constantly keep on hand a full stock of

Laces, Ribbons, Feathers, Flowers, Pin Ornaments, and everything necessary for trimmings.

☞ Call on me if in need of any millinery goods and you will not regret it.

Respectfully,

Lydia C. Brumgard.

LOCAL NEWS.

—SUBSCRIBE for the JOURNAL.

—Nice spring weather since last week's rain.

—First-class job work done at the JOURNAL office.

—Oranges, Candies, Cigars and Tobacco at Lose's grocery. Give him a call.

—Take a look at Kauffman's attractive advertisement at the bottom of this page.

—People who have orchards are feeling good over the prospect of a bountiful crop of fruit.

—FLAGS, FLAGS, FLAGS, large, medium size, and small, at the Journal Store on Penn street.

—The bricklayers commenced work on Musser & Smith's new building on Main street on Tuesday.

—Carpets—Carpets — Carpets — the best selection of Brussels, Ingrain and Rag at Kauffman's store.

—Mr. Daniel Hoy's oldest son, who resided in the West, has arrived in town to make his home with his parents.

—Regular services will be held in the U. B. church of this place next Sunday morning by the pastor, Rev. Wasson.

THE STARS AND STRIPES.—Persons in need of flags on Memorial Day will find a full stock at the Journal Store.

—The front of J. W. Stover's new store building on Main street promises to present a very attractive appearance.

SWEET SEED CORN.—Several quarts of Stowell's Evergreen Sweet Corn, for planting, for sale at the Journal Store.

—C. M. Bower and J. L. Spangler, Esqs., two of Bellefonte's prominent lawyers, were in town on Monday, on professional business.

—John H. Maize has resigned the office of street commissioner of this borough, and the council appointed Jacob Sankey in his place.

—"A stitch in time" often saves consumption. Down's Elixir used in time saves life. For sale by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—Before giving your printing to other establishments call on us for prices and samples of work. We are sure that we can suit you in both.

—By reading John C. Motz's notice in another column it will be seen that Cashier Walter has become a stockholder in the Millheim Turnpike Co.

—For burns, scalds, bruises and all pain and soreness of the flesh, the grand household remedy is Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Be sure you get the genuine.

—The pulpit of the M. E. church of this place will be filled on Sunday evening by one of the ministers in attendance at the Reformed classis at Aaronsburg.

—Michael Eby, of Woodward, wishes to inform the public through these columns that he has a lot of pigs for sale. Persons in want of porkers should call on him.

—Mrs. E. Bartholemew and daughter left for Nittany Valley last week, where they will spend a few week's with the lady's parents, Mr. Joseph Shafer's.

NEW!—J. W. Lose is the new proprietor of the grocery on Main street and will sell as cheap as others, if not cheaper. Read his new advertisement in another place.

—D. L. Zerby has laid his new boardwalk and it is the boss job, and we suggest to those who may want to build boardwalks in the near future to pattern after his.

—Ladies' Hose, full length, full width and guaranteed fast colors, 3 pair for 25 cents, formerly sold at from 15 to 20 cents per pair. Call on D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—We hear that many farmers in this vicinity who planted their corn several weeks ago, are obliged to plant it over, as most of it has rotted in the ground during the recent wet spells.

—Miss Mary Mauck, the daughter of our townsman, Wm. Mauck, departed for Danville, Pa., last Thursday, where she is learning the millinery trade with her mother's aunt, Mrs. Probst.

—HighConstable Sankey was around last week, attending to official duties, such as assessing dogs, notifying property holders to repair their bad boardwalks and keeping a sharp eye on nuisances.

—Last week's Rebersburg communication was just one day too late for publication. Correspondents for this paper should make it a point to send their communications not later than Tuesday.

ATTENTION LADIES!—A large lot of French Tissue Paper, all the material necessary for making flowers, as well as complete flowers, with books of instruction, just received at the Journal store.

—Costiveness is the primary cause of much disease. Dr. Henry Baxter's Mandrake Bitters will permanently cure costiveness. Every bottle warranted. Sold by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—Classis of the Reformed church convened at Aaronsburg last evening at 7.30. Rev. W. H. Groh, of Boalsburg, preached the opening sermon. Services every evening. Communion on Sunday morning.

—The Rev. Wm. Stout, Wiarton, Ont., states: "After being ineffectually treated by seventeen different doctors for Scrofula and blood diseases, I was cured by Burdock Blood Bitters." Write him for proof.

—Notwithstanding the heavy rain on Saturday evening, the band gave their open air concert and quite a crowd of people, sheltered by the awnings, enjoyed the music, which was accompanied by the patter of rain.

—The macadamizing of the pike leading to Coburn is progressing very slowly. It can't be because the stones are scarce. The managers should leave no stone unturned, to have this much traveled road in the best possible condition.

—Since J. Spigelmyer has made a beginning in sodding his front yard terrace style, A. J. Harter follows suit by fixing up his yard in a similar manner. Right, make your homes as attractive as possible, for there is "no place like home."

—In Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment is combined the curative properties of the different oils, with the healing qualities of Arnica. Good for man and animal. Every bottle guaranteed. For sale by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—J. W. Adams, of this place, and Miss Annie E. Hull, of Aaronsburg, were made one by matrimonial bonds last Sunday evening. Rev. Z. A. Yearick performed the ceremony. Since you have abandoned single life, Wesley, we wish you success doubly.

—There will be regular services in the Lutheran church next Sunday evening. Also installation of the new church council members and reading of the annual financial report. On account of this extra business the services will begin half an hour earlier than usually.

—THE only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from poisonous drugs and other offensive odors. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases when all other remedies have failed. It quickly cures cold in the head and catarral headache. Price 50 cents. 17-4t.

—We are glad to learn that Miss Sadie Adams, who has been bedfast for nearly a year now from the severe burns received at Lewisburg, shows a gradual change for the better. Her attending physician expresses hopes of getting her out by harvest time, and we earnestly wish that his hopes may be realized for the patient's sake.

—You will find McDonald's Improved Liver Pills so satisfactory as a corrector of a torpid liver, as a regulator of the bowels, as an eradicator of billiousness, that you will regret not having tried them sooner. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & CO., Philadelphia Agents.

Sold by J. Eisenhuth, Millheim, Pa.

—We are reliably informed and sorry to hear that the health of Mr. J. O. Deininger, of Centre Hall, is somewhat impaired of late. We hope his case may not be serious and that he will fully recover again.

—Health is wealth. "All the health I enjoy, and even my life, I may say, is in consequence of Simmons Liver Regulator. I would not take $1,000,000 for my interests in that medicine." W. H. Wilson, Welborn, Fla.

—The entertainment given by the Ladies' Mite Society of the Reformed church of Aaronsburg on Saturday evening was attended by a full house. The performers carried their parts through well. The proceeds of the evening from different sources amounted to $22.

SETTLEMENT NOTICE.—As we wish to close our books we request all persons who have unsettled accounts with us to call at our place for settlement not later than June 15th, 1886. Parties who fail to comply with this request between this and the above date will be compelled to do so by law.

BARTGES & BRO.

Madisonburg, Pa., May 20, '86. 3t

—The several assessors of Centre county have finished their laborious work of finding the wealth of their respective districts and have filed their reports with the county commissioners, who publish the same in some of the county papers, at the same time giving notice that the 24th, 25th and 26th days of May have been fixed upon at the Commissioners' office in Bellefonte, for appeals.

—Mr. J. C. Blake, of the Monarch Fire Killer Company, New York, is in town at present, and expects to give a test exhibition of the Monarch Fire Killer, that perfect and celebrated extinguisher of fire, this [Thursday] evening at 6½ o'clock, on the hill, east of town, for the inspection and benefit of our town council. All the citizens of Millheim are invited to be on hand and witness the test.

—A new grocery store in town, or rather an old store with a new name. Abs. Harter's grocery on Main street, having been purchased by John W. Lose, will be replenished by a fresh and excellent stock. Mr. L. has had considerable experience as a salesman and will, no doubt, have good success in his undertaking. John also knows that judicious advertising is essential to a lively trade.

—Dr. Stam having applied to the town council for the priyilege of moving the truck house back about ten feet, and which was granted by the council, he will at once proceed with that work. The building was out too far from the first and obscured the uptown view from the brickhouse. The fire company propose to petition the council to have the truck house painted after it occupies its new place.

—All who can afford it and have any musical or literary taste will find the entertainment of the Harry Sisters next Monday evening in the M. E. church well worth attending. Wherever they have been they are highly spoken of and are generally greeted by large audiences. We can safely assure our readers that they will not regret going to hear them. Their splendid performances are a treat to old and young, therefore come one, come all.

ACCIDENT.—Charles, the youngest son of Jacob Alter, of North street, broke his left arm, near the elbow joint, on Saturday afternoon, by falling down a flight of stairs. He and an older brother were playing around the banister at the head of the stairs, when it was proposed to have a race down the steps. Charley missed his footing and landed at the bottom with his whole weight upon his arm. The fracture is of a precarious nature and causes the little fellow a great deal of pain.

FARM FOR SALE.—The undersigned offer that certain tract of land, situate about two miles west of Madisonburg, and being part of the estate of Jeremiah Hoy, deceased, at private sale. It contains about 100 acres of cleared land, with a dwelling house and bank barn thereon erected; also about 45 acres of timberland. Altogether a very desirable farm. Apply to or address

SAMUEL WISE,
ISRAEL VONADA,
Executors.

CENTRE COUNTY'S PROTHONOTARY DEAD.—On Friday morning, Robert G. Brett, prothonotary of this county, died at his residence in Bellefonte, of consumption, with which disease he had been suffering for nearly a year. Until the time of his election to a county office, deceased was a resident of Ferguson township, near Pine Grove Mills, his birthplace, where his body was taken for interment on Sunday morning. He had reached the age of 41 years and 2 months and leaves a wife and six young children.

—For foot-wear go to Kauffman's store, where you can buy a fine Kid Shoe, with worked Button holes, for $2.00. Our prices on Slippers, Walking Shoes and Men's fine shoes are to suit the times.

—Rev. D. Lenhart's flitting, coming from Dallastown, York Co., passed through town on Tuesday afternoon, en route for Rebersburg, where that divine will enter upon his duties as pastor of the Lutheran charge.

—The people of Spring Mills will have an opportunity to enjoy one of those fine entertainments of the Harry Sisters, on Tuesday evening, May 25th. We were requested to make an announcement of their coming to that town at that time.

—An interesting article, headed "The Dry Terms" and written for the Portland Enterprise by Mr. Jonas Ettinger, a relative of Mrs. Wm. Stover, of Aaronsburg, appears on our first page this week. Another one will appear in our next issue. Read it.

—Rev. Crittenden, of Bellefonte, was in town on Tuesday and met with splendid success in disposing of the book entitled "The Best Things," of which he is the author. When he called at this office he had not a single copy left. He expects to return to this place in a few weeks when he will have a new supply of books.

—By all appearances Memorial Day will be creditably observed at Millheim this year. At least the G. A. R. post, as well as the fire company are making preparations for a turn out and in next week's issue we will be able to publish a full programme of the exercises. In the meantime it would be well for the ladies of town to hold a good supply of flowers in readiness.

—Millheim looked quite lively on Monday evening. About half past 7 o'clock the band struck up some of their stirring airs, while the Grand Army men and the firemen awaited the time for their meetings, and the streets were alive with people. Besides that, it happened that a number of strangers were in town who naturally enjoyed and added to the general bustle.

CULTIVATION AND REFINEMENT.—Hon. B. S. Hewitt, ex-Speaker House Representatives, writes:

"J. A. McDonald.

Dear Sir:—I have been buying my flavoring Extracts for years from a Pittsburg manufacturer. Recently we tried a bottle of yours and found it very good indeed. Enclosed find five dollars. Send me its value in your Vanilla Extract.

Moral.—Always ask for McDonald's Flavoring Extracts.

Sold by J. Eisenhuth, Millheim, Pa.

MR. EDITOR:—Please inform the public through your columns that I have sold my interest in the Millheim Banking Company to Messrs. John Stoner, of Millheim, John H. Musser of Aaronsburg and David Krape, of Fiedler. Also that I have sold my stock in the Millheim Turnpike Company to A. Walter, cashier of said bank, and oblige Yours.

JOHN C. MOTZ.

Woodward, Mar 18th, 1886.

—The Millheim H. & L. company met in the town hall last Monday evening and held their annual election of officers. The following were chosen: C. W. Hartman, Pres., J. F. Harter, Vice Pres., P. H. Musser, Sec., and A. A. Frank, Treasurer. The rest of the officers were continued for another year. Several new members were also elected and a special meeting was called for next Monday evening to make arrangements for Decoration day, when a full attendance is desired.

—IT IS now conceded on all sides that there is not and never has been a remedy of such remarkable efficacy as Curtis' Carmelite Cordial, in curing cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera morbus, summer complaints, cramps, pains in the bowels, or any intestinal irritation whatever, a single dose brings remarkable relief and a single bottle is guaranteed to cure any case or money refunded. A remarkable pain killer and valuable household remedy.

Of Interest to Ladies.

The new treatment for ladies' diseases discovered by Dr. Mary A. Gregg, the distinguished English Physician and nurse, which has revolutionized the entire mode of treating these complaints in England is now being introduced into the U. S., under a fair novel plan.

Sufficient of this remedy for one month's trial treatment is sent free to every lady who is suffering from any disease common to the sex who sends her address and 13 2ct stamps for expense, charges, etc.

It is a positive cure for any form of female disease and the free trial package is many times sufficient to effect a permanent cure. Full directions accompany the package (which is put up in a plain wrapper) also price list for future reference. No trial package will be sent after Aug. 1st, 1886. Address, GREGG REMEDY COMPANY, PALMYRA, N. Y. 19-3m

—The finest assortment of Ties and Gents Furnishing Goods in general at D. S. Kauffman & Co's popular store.

G. A. R. AT MILLHEIM.—The postponed transfer of Post 298, Rebersburg, to Millheim, was accomplished last Monday evening. A good while before the time for meeting, the visiting veterans gathered into town from all directions and Main street was soon populated by uniformed veterans. At 8 o'clock they assembled in the Odd Fellows' hall on Penn street, with P. Dept. Com. Austin Curtin, as mustering officer, assisted by the following members of the Saml. Shannon Post, No. 282, of Centre Hall: Col. And. Gregg, W. P. Shoop, W. J. Thompson, Geo. M. Boal, C. David Runkle, Geo. Koch, David Burrell, Daniel Kennedy, David Barree, J. N. Leitzell, Nathaniel Brown, J. I. Condo, James Kennelly, John Odenkirk.

Post Maj. W. W. Byers, No. 384, of Adamsburg, was represented by Com. J. F. Keller, at present teaching a select school in town.

Gregg Post, No. 95, Bellefonte, had the following in attendance: Jesse Steward and John Griffith.

The post was organized with a membership of thirty, of which the following is a complete list:

TRANSFERRED:

Henry Meyer, Rebersburg.
H. G. Royer, "
C. Bierly, "
John A. Miller, "
Thos. C. Royer, "
Jesse Long, "
S. R. Gettig, Coburn.
J. W. Hafley, Aaronsburg.

NEW:

W. A. Tobias, Millheim.

Jacob A. Fisher, Woodward.
L. D. Kreamer, Fiedler.

The officers of the post are: O. W. Van Valin, Commander; John A. Miller, Sen. V. Com.; J. W. Snook, Jun. V. Com.; M. M. Musser, Q. M.; W. A. Tobias, Adj.; S. D. Musser, Sergt. Maj.; W. J. Springer, Chap.; S. G. Gutelius, Surg.; S. R. Gettig, O. of Day; Chas. Bierly, Ord. Off.; George Rupp, O. G.

The meetings of the post will be semi monthly, every first and third Monday. A special meeting will be held on next Monday evening for the purpose of making arrangements to properly observe Memorial day.

The organization ceremonies were attended by a large number of comrades, all of whom took much interest in the matter. The post starts out with very encouraging prospects and may in a short time swell its numbers to about 70 or 45.

—INCREASED buoyancy of spirits, perfect assimilation of food, improved appetite, gain in flesh, sound refreshing sleep, heightened color in the cheeks and lips, added brilliancy to the eyes, follows the use of McDonald's Great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparillian Alterative. A bottle or two used in the family would obviate the entire train of spring maladies. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

AARONSBURG.

Still a little too superfluous.

Was it Sanford—well, I didn't know. Excuse me.

Johnny Whipcracker went through town one day last week.

H. H. and F. J. Weaver are selling their Holstein cattle to parties in Penn's, Brush and Nittany Valleys.

Haines township has more money on interest than any other township in the county, Millheim borough not excepted.

L. D. Kurtz and wife from Mifflinburg, Pa., were in town on Saturday and Sunday to visit the lady's parents, Mr. Emanuel Ettinger's.

Der deutsche John Volk, who had been living with Jas. P. Coburn for nearly seven years, left here last Wednesday to make his home with Dr. Wasson, of Lock Haven, Pa.

No doubt the officiating clergyman will give due notice to the Journal of the marriage on last Sunday evening of Miss Annie Hull, of this place, to Mr. J. W. Adams, of Millheim. No cards.

Al. Stover is becoming very popular as an instructor of vocal music. Besides having a very large class here in town, the people at and near Wolf's school house have raised a class for him there.

We are not at all surprised that some of the Millheim boys have become so sweet on our girls. Look back into the past and see what Aaronsburg has already done for Millheim in the way of good, first-class lady housekeepers. And so the same opinion still prevails. Come on boys, we have got them right here, but some of you had better keep your eye on a sliver, because some of the old dads are beginning to think you mean business. ANOTHER.

SMITH TOWN.

Our farmers call this the wettest corn planting season we have had for years.

Miss Maggie Swartz, of Millheim, spent Sunday with J. H. Frank's at this place.

B. F. Frankenberger greatly improved his home by painting his barn. He had a lively set of painters. They were not satisfied with painting the barn alone, but put a coat of paint on one of his sheep. While everybody was eating dinner, the hogs were eating about $3.00 worth of paint, and no doubt the interior of the animals presents a new appearance. "Fresh paint."

George Royer left for Lewistown where he expects to work at his trade—carpentering.

Dr. P. T. Musser has a force of hands at work digging a ditch, to lay water pipes from the spring, north of this place, to his farm buildings on the hill. The water company's pipes are nearly always out of order, so he lays his own pipes.

Geo. Schuyler came home last week to stay. No more farm work for him.

Alfred Keen moved from the old house into the new one on Henry Keen's farm.

George Breon, one of our young men, paid a visit to his native valley.

Wilmer Bowersox, son of Frank Bowersox, of Rock Spring, is in our midst on a few week's visit.

Mr. Moras Johnson, from Stone Valley, was the guest of Miss Lizzie Keen.

A thief was trying to help himself at Jos. Grossman's. But if he ever handled his long legs lively, it was when Mr. and Mrs. Grossman suddenly made their appearance on the scene.

Boys, exercise your muscles, so they are in proper trim for the raising which is soon to take place.

Quite a number wondered what had become of Jumbo last week. Not dead, but sleeping. JUMBO.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

LAST WEEK'S TERRIFIC STORMS IN THE WEST.

Widespread Destruction in the Path of the Death-Dealing Cyclones—Havoc of the Wind, Rain and Hail.

Pittsburg, May 12.—Late dispatches from points along the Conemaugh Valley report several persons severely injured by the tornado which passed over that section on Monday evening. Mrs. James Brett, who had just given birth to a child about 3 hours before, was in bed at the time. She was carried over a fence into a field and was picked up more dead than alive. She is not expected to live. Hertie Faust, a friend of Mrs. Brett, was carried some distance and had her face lacerated, besides sustaining painful body bruises. Mrs. Taylor was thrown down and her ankle sprained. Mrs. MacRum and her aged mother were lifted off their feet and slightly injured. Mr John Foust's house was blown down, the bed clothing was carried 1½ mile and lodged in the tree tops. The telegraph poles along the railroad were blown down, cows killed, and trees blown fully 200 feet in the air, while fences and small buildings were nothing but straws in the way. At McConnellsburg, the Methodist Church was struck by lightning, and the spire shattered and considerable damage done to the auditorium and lecture room. Two men, engaged in burning lime, were prostrated by a bolt of lightning, and two horses were killed.

Effects of the Storm at Leavenworth.

Leavenworth, Kan., May 12.—About noon yesterday, a terrific tornado, accompanied with rain, struck Leavenworth from the northwest. Roofs, sidewalks, and everything movable went in its path. The first building in the city was the Morris Public School, a four-story and basement structure on the northern limit of the city, and where 900 children attended. A panic was raised among the children, and, before the teachers could realize the danger, 50 students ran into the storm. The remainder were quieted. No damage was done further than unroofing the building. At Rain & Varney's warehouse, in the centre of the city, the roof was blown off into the street below, killing three horses and fatally injuring the driver. The damage to crops in the surrounding vicinity is very heavy, whole fields of corn having been washed from the ground.

Many Buildings Wrecked in Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., May 12.—A very severe storm, with violent wind, rain and lightning, visited here last evening, doing damage amounting to about $60,000. The African Baptist Church, a large brick building, was crushed in, and several persons preparing for a festival narrowly escaped with their lives. Fences, trees and chimneys were blown down by the hundreds. A colored man named Daniels was struck by lightning and will die. Two unknown men in a skiff on the river were lost. Joseph Effinger, a farmer, driving along Water street in the storm, was struck by a falling tree and his skull fractured, which resulted in his death.

Torrents in the Streets of Osage City.

Osage City, Mo., May 12.—The most violent storm that ever was witnessed here struck this place about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, lasting about an hour and a half, during which time the rain poured in torrents, so that within 10 minutes from the time it began the streets and fields were flooded and covered with water that drift wood floated over their surfaces. Fences were torn down, trees were uprooted from the ground and blown in every direction. No loss of life has been reported, but the crops in the surrounding country will prove a total loss, and a majority of the fields it will be necessary to replant.

Sedalia's Streets Flooded.

Sedalia, Mo., May 12.—Shortly after noon yesterday Sedalia experienced the heaviest rain and hail storm it has known in years. It was accompanied by a heavy wind, but it was of short duration. Road-master Peter Rock well received telegrams informing him that the bridges near Pleasant Hill and Little Blue on the main line of the Missouri Pacific had been seriously damaged by the floods. In this city the principal streets resembled rivers, the small sewers proving wholly inadequate for the vast volume of water which fell. No loss of life has been reported in this city or vicinity.

Green Ridge Shaken Up.

Green Ridge, Mo., May 12.—The village of Green Ridge suffered severely by yesterday's storm. Houses were removed from their foundations, outbuildings were destroyed, fences were blown down, and great damage done to fruit and shade trees. The glass in the windows of nearly every building in town exposed to the fury of the storm was shattered by hail. No lives were lost, and none of those who were injured are in a dangerous condition.

Damage at Nortonville and Vicinity.

Atchison, Kan., May 12—At about 1 o'clock yesterday morning a severe cyclone struck the town of Nortonville, seventeen miles southwest of this city, doing an immense amount of damage. Many dwelling houses were unroofed and almost totally destroyed. Reports from the surrounding country state that the damage to property is very great, many farmhouses, barns, &c., having been blown down. No lives were lost, but many were slightly and a few seriously injured.

A Missouri Town Destroyed.

Rollo, Mo., May 12.—The report comes from Vichy Springs, 12 miles north of Rollo, that the greater part of that town was destroyed by the storm of last night. A majority of the residences and many of the business blocks were unroofed and almost completely demolished, but no lives were lost, and only 4 persons were injured, and they not seriously.

Hailstones Like Pumpkins.

Mineal Point, Mo., May 12.—This section was visited by a most terrific hail storm yesterday afternoon. There was no serious damage done at this place, but it is feared the country immediately south of here suffered severely. Hailstones measuring 11 inches in circumference were picked up during the storm. A colt was killed by being struck by one of these masses of ice.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken by your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant ao the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world Price 25 cents a bottle.

LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. QUAKER
Is the Best
TABLE SAUCE.

Thousands of articles are now manufactured that in former years had to be imported, paying high import duty as it is now being done on Lea & Perrins table sauce; the QUAKER TABLE SAUCE takes its place; it has been pronounced by competent judges just as good and even better. The QUAKER SAUCE is slowly but surely gained great importance and is replacing the very best imported sauce on the shelf of the grocer, the tables of the restaurant and the tables of the rich and poor men, ready prepared and relished by all on account of its piquancy, aroma, taste, strength and purenes. The inventor has by years of study of the moral virtues contained in the aromatic spices of the Indies and China, such as mace, nutmeg, cloves, etc., genuine Jamaica ginger, and peppers and barks of trees unknown to most men, and by long practice succeeded to combine their extracts in such a liquid form as we now find it, of agreeable taste, and so invigorating as to be taken in place of stomach bitters. By manufacturing this sauce here, heavy import duties and freights are saved, and it is sold at a lower figure to the dealer, who making a better profit on Quaker Sauce can sell it to the consumer cheaper than the very best imported article hardly equalled before. If your grocer does not keep it, write us for prices, etc. Sold in bottles or by the gallon.
